26.09.22

Duncan Kreeger of TAB sat with Simon Roderick, managing director of Fram Search to record the next episode of Simon's "Interviews with Industry Leaders".

Duncan and Simon discussed TAB and the businesses plan moving forward, including developing new products with a particular focus on sustainability and how TAB leverages existing technology that is available to support its investors, borrowers and brokers.

During the interview, they discussed Duncan's first business where he gave his advice on starting a new business:

"A lot of people don't get to the start line, they put themselves off before they get there. Lose the fear of failure and accept that if it goes wrong, nothing happens but you will have learnt not what to do next time. Try obtain real feedback even if it's from a small cohort. Listen, learn, and adapt. Seek advice and guidance from people who care and understand what you're trying to achieve."

Duncan also described himself as a salesman at heart, and how he's always leveraging skills and surrounding himself with good people. Positive people who believe in the direction of travel can promote motivation.

They went into a further discussion about the future of the market, what trends Duncan is seeing as well as the impact external factors will have on the market including rising interest rates, inflation and the cost of living crisis.
