

Benefits of being financially literate

Blog

31.08.23

Introduction

Discover the power of financial literacy, a skill set that empowers people to make informed decisions and take control of their finances. With savvy tips, strategic steps and insightful advice, in this blog you'll learn how financial literacy can bolster your knowledge, from planning a secure future to navigating debt and boosting your credit score.

Smart money moves: improved financial planning

When it comes to financial planning, knowledge truly is power. Having the insights to craft a solid financial foundation can set you up for a lifetime of success. Here are our tips for improving your financial planning:

- Set crystal-clear goals, like saving for a deposit for a home or for your retirement. If you know the end goal, it's easier to plan where to spend and where not to.
- Cut out unnecessary expenses – swap that coffee shop latte for homemade brews and monitor and cancel subscriptions you don't use.
- Build an emergency fund to tackle the unexpected. Start small if needed. If you're just beginning to save, even £25/£50 per paycheck is a good start. Some money saved is better than nothing, and slowly increase the amount as you're able to.

Debt demolition: effective debt management

Financial literacy helps you to navigate debt complexities. By mastering effective debt management, you can minimise interest costs and break free from debt traps. The steps below can hopefully help you on the journey towards financial freedom:

1. Face reality: acknowledge your debts and the terms of the loans
2. Prioritise: list debts by interest rate, focusing on high-interest ones
3. Create a budget: trim unnecessary expenses and allocate funds to debt payments
4. Negotiate: reach out to creditors for lower interest rates or extended terms

5. Snowball method: tackle the smallest debts first, then build momentum
6. Debt consolidation: combine high-interest debts for manageable payments
7. Seek help: consult financial advisors or debt charities like Stepchange or National Debtline
8. Mindful spending: avoid new debt, redirect funds toward paying off existing debt

Score high: building a strong credit rating

Your credit score isn't just a number – it's your ticket to financial opportunities. Building and maintaining a strong credit score requires knowledge and diligence. Financial literacy comes to your aid here, guiding you through strategies that elevate your credit game. Working on the points below could help build a strong credit score:

- Pay timely bill payments – autopay or reminders save the day.
- Register on the electoral roll for a credit boost and identity confirmation.
- Be credit-wise. You ideally want a utilisation ratio under 30%. To do this you can decrease your spending, pay down your balance early, increase your credit limit and don't close unused cards.
- If you take out a loan for say a car or a house, ensure you can pay the agreed monthly fee before signing on the dotted line.

Enhancing financial wellbeing

Imagine a life free from financial stress. By taking the time to learn about financial wellbeing, you can make it so the decisions you make are grounded with confidence and clarity.

Our tips:

- If you have the time to learn about investing, you can potentially make money in the background. Or research companies that can do these investments for you, but know that these services cost money and will cut into your potential profit.
- Sidestep debt dangers and predatory money scams for solid, long-lasting security. Read our blog series on how to stay safe online here.

- Attending seminars and courses on how to make your money go further is also a very beneficial way to spend your time.

In this article we have gone through the benefits of financial literacy and we have discussed the tools to transform your financial future. Armed with strategies for astute planning, breaking debt's hold, boosting credit scores, and nurturing financial wellbeing. By embracing this knowledge, you're not just altering your financial landscape; you're seizing control, finding confidence, and charting a course to lasting freedom. Remember, this is just the beginning. As you continue to explore and learn, you're crafting a narrative of financial success that's uniquely yours.

The next blog is on ways to improve your financial literacy, make sure to keep your eyes peeled for that.

This article is for information only and does not constitute advice or a personal recommendation. When it comes to online activity it is important to be cautious and seek appropriate professional advice.

Capital is at risk. Property values can go down as well as up. Borrowers may default and investments may not perform as expected. Interest and income are not guaranteed. Returns may vary. You should not invest more than you can afford to lose. TAB is not authorised by the Financial Conduct Authority. Investments are not regulated and you will have no access to the Financial Services Compensation Scheme (FSCS) or the Financial Ombudsman Service (FOS). Past performance and forecasts are not reliable indicators of future results and should not be relied on. Forecasts are based on TAB's own internal calculations and opinions and may change. Investments are illiquid. Once invested, you are committed for the full term. Tax treatment depends on individual circumstances and may change.

You are advised to obtain appropriate tax or investment advice where necessary. Understand more about the key risks here.

TAB is a trading name of TAB London Limited. Registered in England and Wales with registration number: 11225821 and whose registered office is at 101 New Cavendish Street, London W1W 6XH.